

Farley On Committee To Collect Party Deficit From Federal Workers

WASHINGTON — Big Jim Farley is at it again. The tens of thousands of Government employees residing in Washington are being vigorously solicited for contributions to pay off the half-million dollar deficit of the Democratic National Committee.

The campaign is being conducted most adroitly. Nominally Jim has nothing to do with it, the solicitations being made by the "National Democratic Council of the District of Columbia."

But prominently displayed in the upper right-hand corner of its very pointed letter is the following:

National Officers

James A. Farley, Chairman.
Walter J. Cummings, Treasurer.
And in the left-hand corner is still more significant information: Democratic Finance Committee of the District of Columbia (authorized by the Democratic National Committee).
Jos. J. Cotter, Chairman.
Warren C. Usrey, Secretary.

The letter itself reads as follows: "As you will see from the attached appeal, we are making an effort to assist the National Democratic Committee in paying off its deficit."

If you can help, won't you please let me hear from you as soon as convenient.

JOS. J. COTTER, Chairman.

The attached "appeal" consists of a blank pledge. It is headed "To Friends of the New Deal." In italics at the bottom is this heart-warming announcement:

"Note: With a view of broadening the base of participation in party affairs, the National Committee has decided to limit contributions to a maximum of $1,000.00."

Discouraged

"Well, Senator," said a friend to George Norris the day after Roosevelt had spanked A. F. of L. leaders and dismissed a group of militant liberals from the AAA, "what do you think of the New Deal now?"

"I don't want to think about it," was the dolorous reply.

Disturbed

Despite the President's snappy rejoinder to the A. F. of L., his inner council is far from happy over the rift with organized labor.

None of them had anticipated the fierce outburst of indignation that greeted renewal of the auto code. It had been extended three times before with nothing more disastrous than a little labor muttering, and Richberg and the President's other advisers thought this was all that would happen again.

What they overlooked is the fact that A. F. of L. leadership is on a hot spot from within its own ranks. Left wing rank-and-filers are flaying their officers for lack of aggressiveness.

So when the President, without even going through the motions of consulting labor leaders, renewed the code, they had to make a show of fight.

What is worrying Administration masterminds is not so much the ire of labor leaders—always comparatively easy to soothe—but the effect of the clash on the laboring public and upon Senate Progressives.

The latter are known to be decidedly glum over recent Administration trends.

And despite the President's vigorous right swing, he cannot afford politically to break with the liberals. They are powerful factors in sections that will be very crucial in the 1936 campaign.

It was no surprise, therefore, when a reassuring tip emanated from inner council quarters that (Continued On Page Four).

WILENTZ DEMANDS BRUNO'S LIFE

COUNTY DADS MAY EXPAND COURT HOUSE

Discuss PWA Application In Effort To Add 5 Rooms To Building

TALK BRIDGE, TOO

Present Structure is Now Overcrowded

Possibility was expressed today that an addition may be erected to the court house with the aid of Public Works funds. The county commissioners have discussed the question with Relief Director Howard Irwin and Engineer Harry Griner and are expected to sign an application for PWA funds with which to do the work.

It is estimated, roughly, that the addition would cost $50,000. It would be placed between the new garage, for which a foundation is now being dug, and the treasurer's office. According to preliminary plans the addition, which would relieve much overcrowding in the court house, would include five new rooms.

Discuss Bridge, Too

The commissioners are also discussing obtaining PWA funds for construction of a new bridge over the road between Whisler and Laurelville. This is a much needed improvement, they say.

City council has already filed its application for public works estimated to cost nearly a million.

LANCASTER, Feb. 12—Thirteen public works projects including a municipal sewage disposal plant and a municipal light and power plant have been proposed for this city in applications sent to L. A. Boulay, PWA chief for Ohio.

The projects total $675,753 in estimated value.

RESIGNATION OF AMRINE ACCEPTED

COLUMBUS, Feb. 12—W. F. Amrine's resignation as superintendent of the London prison farm, submitted because he resented the administration's demand for political data on his civil service employees, was formally accepted today by Gov. Martin L. Davey, effective March 1 "or sooner if he desires."

"No man is indispensable," said Davey in accepting the resignation the whole effect of which he branded "an apparent effort to embarrass the administration by pretending to defend the spirit of civil service, when as a matter of fact his action smacks of partisan opposition and unfriendly maneuver."

FAYETTE COUNTIANS SUE B. & O. RAILROAD

COLUMBUS, Feb. 12—Three petitions, asking damages against the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company were on file in the federal court here today. All three plaintiffs, Nate Dunn, Rose Alexander and Arizona Flint, all of Washington, C. H., charge they suffered injuries when the car driven by Dunn was struck by a B. and O. train at Washington C. H. on June 24, 1934.

Dunn seeks $35,000, Alexander $20,000 and Flint $7,500. The petitions were filed by Attorney W. S. Paxson of Washington C. H. and M. L. Bernstein of Cleveland.

Girl, Struck By Brother, Near Death

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 12—Helen Katherine Williams, 8, was believed dying today, her skull fractured in three places by a hammer which her half brother confessed wielding because he had been thwarted in his desire for a pet dog.

William Hardy, 21, the half brother, confessed, according to police, that he beat the child with the hammer, stuffed her unconscious body into the rumble seat of his car, and then told his mother Helen she had kidnapped.

"I wanted a dog, but my mother said I couldn't have one because it made my sister nervous," Hardy assertedly told police. "I just figured I she wasn't there I probably would get the dog."

THIRD SON OF FAMILY DEAD

Creeping Paralysis Fatal to John Dietrich, 17, of St. Clairsville

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Feb. 12—Death today outwitted the efforts of medical science to discover the cause of the baffling form of creeping paralysis that has afflicted the male members of the Dietrich family for the last three generations.

The third and last son of Mr. and Mrs. George Dietrich succumbed at his home in Belmont near here yesterday afternoon.

Influenza was the direct cause of John Dietrich's death, Dr. E. W. Turner, the family physician said, but it was the mysterious racking paralysis that undermined his health and left him prey to the common disease.

Five days ago, John's 16-year-old brother, Glenn, died from influenza brought on by a physical condition weakened from the same creeping paralysis. Another brother died from the disease several years ago.

Medical science has studied the mysterious paralysis, but without success in determining its nature that has made its victims the male members of the Dietrich family since 1860.

The disease, which twists the bones of its victims into grotesque positions, (Continued on Page Six.)

BELGRANO WARNS OF RED MENACE

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 12—The red menace in America, if Lincoln were alive today, would concern him far more than does the present momentary lack of golden prosperity.

The American Legion is bending every effort to stamp out this menace.

This was the declaration made here today by Frank M. Belgrano, Jr., national commander of the American Legion, in a fiery address delivered at the first annual American Legion pilgrimage to the tomb of Abraham Lincoln in Oak Ridge cemetery here. The pilgrimage was one of several programs staged in commemoration of the 126th anniversary of Lincoln's birth.

WORRIED FOR SON'S SAFETY, CHARLES C. McALLISTER DIES; CREW TAKEN FROM SCHOONER

Father Of Maynard McAllister Falls Dead At Home Early Tuesday

LISTENED FOR NEWS Had Resided Here For Five Years

Worried concerning the safety of his son, Maynard, 24, cook aboard the distressed Seth Parker, pleasure schooner on a world cruise, Charles C. McAllister, 46, fell dead at his home, 557 E. Franklin-st., Tuesday at 2:30 a. m.

Mr. McAllister was suffering from heart trouble and had been under a physician's care intermittently for the past year.

He had listened to his radio Monday evening presumably for news concerning his son and the ship which has been buffeted by heavy seas and a gale for the past three days. He became ill about 10 p. m. and a neighbor Mrs. Samuel Hawkes, who lives across the street, was called to the home by Margy Ellen, McAllister's 11-year-old stepdaughter. Dr. E. R. Austin was called and administered aid.

Fell Dead On Floor

Mr. McAllister retired and about 2 o'clock left his bed to go to the bathroom. He fell as he entered the bathroom and died there.

Sunday afternoon, Mr. McAllister received a telegram from his son saying all was well. Later reports that another storm had struck the ship added to his fears and this, it is believed, hastened his demise.

Mrs. McAllister was in Mt. Vernon at the time of her husband's death.

Mr. McAllister was a native of Williamsport being born there Jan. 19, 1889 a son of Wesley and Olive Tripp McAllister. He spent the greater part of his life in Williamsport working with his father as a blacksmith and as an automobile mechanic. He later moved to Columbus where he cooked in a restaurant. He came to Circleville five years ago and had been employed at the J. W. Eshelman & Son Milling Co.

Widow Pastor's Daughter

He is survived by his widow, Vera Marguerite McAllister, daughter of Rev. M. R. White, Chillicothe United Brethren minister; two sons, Charles Maynard, who is on the Seth Parker, and Clark of Williamsport; two stepdaughters, Margy Ellen and Betty Jane; two sisters, Mrs. Harry Hamilton and Mrs. Joe West, of Williamsport and a brother, Thomas, of Columbus.

He was a member of Morris Chapel United Brethren church. Funeral arrangements in charge of the Albaugh Co. have not been completed.

GRIFFEY TAKES RIDE

Robert Griffey, W. Main-st., who beat his wife then tried to prevent Officer Fred Fitzpatrick from putting him in the city jail, entered the workhouse at Cincinnati today to serve out $300 and costs assessed him by Mayor W. B. Cady Monday on charges of assault and battery and resisting an officer.

It will take Griffey 238 days to serve the fines and costs.

Griffey was taken to Cincinnati by Officer William McCrady and Abe Greenlee.

40.5 Miles of Electric Lines in County Advised

The state relief commission in a preliminary report of the statewide rural electrification survey recommended construction of 40.5 miles of electric wiring in five Pickaway-co townships.

The complete report of the commission listed 3,040 miles of power lines in 680 townships in 76 of the 88 Ohio counties. The estimated cost would be $3,648,000.

The proposal, it was said, was submitted to federal authorities but what further action may be taken will depend upon what orders the state receives from Washington after Congress acts on

British Ship Stands By Seth Parker; Lord, Four Others Still Aboard

SHIP IS ENROUTE

Expect Schooner To Be Taken To Pago Pago

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 12—H. M. S. Australia, British warship carrying the Duke of Gloucester, stood by the disabled four-masted schooner Seth Parker today in heavy south seas, 300 miles off Pago Pago while a naval tug from Tutuila proceeded to the scene.

The Australia transferred nine from the schooner safely aboard the warship at 9:28 o'clock last night.

The schooner's master, Phillips Lord, radio and screen entertainer, with four other members of the crew were still aboard the schooner, an "adventure vessel," which set sail a year ago last December from Portland, Me., on a world cruise.

Heavy swells and rain squalls were still buffeting the schooner, although no further danger was anticipated.

Shortly before midnight last night, naval radio here received a message from the naval station at Tutuila, Pago Pago, that the tug Ontario was proceeding to the Seth Parker's assistance.

Message Intercepted

Shortly after a message was intercepted from the master of the

ITALY READY FOR TROUBLE

Demands Apology from Abyssinia and Indemnity For Deaths

LONDON, Feb. 12—With reserve troops called up and fully prepared for hostilities, Italy has demanded an abject apology from Abyssinia as a result of new clashes on the frontier of Italian Somaliland which cost scores of lives. It was stated in an exchange telegraph dispatch from Rome today.

The dispatch declared that Italy insists Abyssinian troops salute the Italian flag with bared heads.

In addition, the dispatch stated, Italy has demanded guarantees from Abyssinia with respect to frontiers and insisted upon appointment of a mixed commission under auspices of the League of Nations to correct the boundary line between Abyssinia and Italian Somaliland.

Indemnities are also demanded, the dispatch said, Italy asking 1,000 thalers (approximately $500) for each Italian killed and 150 thalers for every man wounded. Italian sources estimate 200 native Italian troops killed.

Meanwhile, the situation remained tense, with reports stating 30,000 Abyssinian troops mobilized on the frontier. Emperor Haile Selassie of Abyssinia was reported calling up all classes of reserves.

Worry Over Threats Blamed For Flight Of Abduction Victim

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 12—Threatening letters and worry over the part she played in prosecuting her kidnappers were blamed today for the flight of Mary McElroy, vivacious young daughter of City Manager H. F. McElroy, that terminated at Normal, Ill.

Returned by airplane in a near-hysterical condition, Miss McElroy was at her father's home today recovering from the experience. The 26-year-old girl, kidnapped for $30,000 ransom in 1933, nearly fainted on the arm of her father when she was assisted from the plane last night.

Before Miss McElroy stepped down from the chartered plane her sister-in-law, Mrs. Henry McElroy Jr., collapsed at the flying field and was carried to her automobile.

CROMLEY AGAIN CO-OP PRESIDENT

Paul W. Cromley, of Walnut-twp., will serve through 1935 as president of the Pickaway-co Livestock Co-operative association. Directors of the organization met at the farm bureau home Monday evening to organize.

Kenneth Wertman, Washington-twp., was named vice president succeeding J. B. Stevenson, Wayne-twp., while C. E. Dick, Monroe-twp., was again elected secretary.

Directors of the organization in addition to the officers are John G. Boggs, J. F. Willis, J. B. Stevenson and George C. Gerhardt.

The name of E. H. Fetherolf, Saltcreek-twp., was inadvertently omitted from the list of directors of the farm bureau in Monday's Herald.

But Governor Laffoon, immediately upon his return, revoked the order of extradition.

FLAMES KILL FIVE IN OHIO

Four Burn In Cincinnati Apartment Fire; Oil Lamp Kills Another

CINCINNATI, Feb. 12—Trapped in their second floor apartment in a home in suburban Norwood when fire swept through the residence, four persons were dead today and two others were in a hospital suffering from burns.

Victims of the blaze were Hugh Mitchell, 33, a salesman, his son, James, two and one-half years old, Mrs. Freda Doerger, 29, and the latter's daughter, Mary, 5.

Raymond Doerger, 32, the father of Mary, Mrs. Josephine Mitchell, wife of one of the victims, and Alvin, a nine-months-old son of the Doergers were rescued by police and firemen.

MANSFIELD, Feb. 12—Mrs. George Beer, 32, was fatally burned today when fire, caused by an exploding oil lamp, destroyed the Beer home nine miles southeast of here.

When the fluid exploded, Mrs. Beer was showered with flames. Her daughter, Helen, 14, threw a blanket over her and dragged her from the blazing residence but she died a short time later in a hospital here.

STRAWSER JAILED AS THEFT SUSPECT

Arthur Strawser, rear of W. Main-st., was in city jail today for investigation into the theft of $104 from the pockets of William H. Grubbs, Jackson-twp., Saturday night.

Grubbs was attending a "penny ante" party at Strawser's home, he told police, and went to sleep on a bed. When he awakened his money was gone.

Marshall Shisler, W. Main-st., who was questioned Monday was released by police Monday evening.

SAWYER TO SPEAK AS VETERANS MEET

JURY MAY NOT BE GIVEN CASE UNTIL MORNING

State's Attorney Calls Hauptmann "Lowest Animal In World"

"AN EGO-MANIAC"

Defends Members of Lindbergh Household

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

COURTROOM, FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 12—"Bruno Richard Hauptmann—public enemy number one of the world!"

Pointing his finger at the man accused of the kidnapping and murder of the Lindbergh baby, Attorney General David T. Wilentz today buried this characterization at the pale-faced defendant during the state's closing summation to the jury today at "the trial of the century." He demanded the death penalty for Hauptmann.

Hauptmann, who wept yesterday when his own lawyer addressed the jury, did not bat an eye as Wilentz branded him the arch-criminal of the universe.

Wilentz declared that a man who would kill the Lindbergh baby would not be an American—he would have to be, he said, a man with ice water in his veins instead of blood.

"An ego-maniac, the kind of a man who could keep a secret," shouted Wilentz. "The type of a man who would never tell a thing if death itself threatened him."

It was at this point that Wilentz wheeled and pointed at Hauptmann and called him "Public enemy number one of the world!"

"Lowest in World"

"We have found the animal who committed this crime," he cried. "There he is, the lowest kind of animal in this world!"

Wilentz ridiculed the defense claim that it has been without funds. He insisted Hauptmann's defense received plenty of funds from various sources and pointed out that it had been able to employ one of the most noted criminal lawyers in the country.

The Attorney General assailed what he termed the defense tactics in assassinating the character of respectable persons who have come to aid the state in this case. He warmly defended his own witnesses.

He had some of the state witnesses stand up in court—men such as Colonel H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of the New Jersey state police; Police Inspector Henry Bruckmann of New York City, and William Frank of the United States Treasury Department. He vigorously defended their records and their motives in coming to testify for the state in the Hauptmann trial.

Hits Defense Funds

Wilentz, in speaking of defense funds, said he thought they got money "from drunks, idiots, fools." (Continued on Page Six.)

THE GRIM TEACHER

MANY heartache has been caused by the business depression. Many a fortune has been lost as one of its results. Its effects have gone even so far as to be responsible for the loss of human lives. It has been a ruthless thing, this last depression — a terrible thing.

Yet, with all the trouble and misery that has come out of the economic distress, one cannot but see the value that it has had on the lives of the average family of today — especially in regard to the youth of adolescent age.

Prior to the time when the sting of the depression was first felt to its fullness, money was considered the dominating power in the world. It still is to some extent, but in most cases at the present time a man is not judged merely by his accumulation of wealth. The world has learned that a man can be quite a good citizen of the community and still not be on top of the "financial pile." It is possible to have a good time under normal conditions without riding through on a roll of "greenbacks".

Generally speaking, the pleasure of the world have been reduced to a less complex nature. The family dwelling has become once more a home — capable of sustaining amusement and not merely a place to cast one's tired body. Family members have realized their mutual worth and the degree of consolation that comes from it.

Hard and relentless as a teacher as the business depression has been, it has been a good teacher — a thorough teacher. It taught the value of the family, the home and money to those who had lost it. Surely these things should compensate in a measure for the hardships that it wrought.

FOOL PROOF

PROBABLY as long as explosives are made there will be danger to the careless, but an explosive which needs a dynamite cartridge to set it off is as near foolproof as anything. That is the claim for nitro-ammonia, or nitramon, as developed for use in quarries and mines. Accidents are expected to decrease because of it. A worker may let his heavy tools fall upon it, he may build a bonfire alongside a heap of it. Nothing will happen. They speak of it as combining the safety of water with detonating power greater than that of TNT.

The allusion to its explosive ability indicates that while it may be safe to fool with this stuff, it were well to be a long way off when it is induced to let go. If it is 20 per cent stronger than TNT it is capable of working havoc to its surroundings. Man is apparently approaching a point at which he will not have to rely upon faith when he wants to move mountains.

Moreover it is comforting to have evidence of progress in the field of domestic violence, so to speak, when there is so much more talk of new and death-dealing chemicals, contraptions and lethal machines to be used in what everybody now speaks of with assurance as The Next War.

Probably the war plans are going ahead without interruption, but meanwhile the scientists are discovering how we may save lives rather than destroy them in every-day tasks. We suspect, incidentally, that more scientific thought than most people know about goes into making the world safer; the death-dealing devices merely get all the publicity.

A flop is any high official who can no longer keep Americans excited.

If he decides not to quit smoking, after all, his grippe is getting better.

So live that witnesses perjuring themselves for you will not be trapped before they leave the stand.

A hick town is a place where there's no excitement except when Mrs. Smith hears what Mrs. Jones said.

Senator Long has charged that an assault has been plotted against him. A lot of people will hope he's right.

Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan has sold six valuable paintings for $1,500,000. Well, he probably needs the money.

Congressman O'Malley, of Wisconsin, complains that capitalists are never seen in the front line at war. The same complaint might also be applied to generals.

The one certain change to be effected by the Townsend plan for relief is that those who are in the poorhouse now will leave and their places will be taken by those now on the outside.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

The E. C. Eylar service station, N. Court-st, was robbed for the third time within three months. A slot machine containing checks and nickels was stolen.

L. E. Miller, city service director, was seriously ill of blood poisoning in his right hand caused by a splinter which entered his thumb while he was engaged in tacking up quarantine signs for measles.

The new Circle dining car located at 135 E. Main-st, was opened by Mrs. F. B. Fuller.

Mrs. John G. Jefferies, W. Mill-st, was severely injured when a large section of plastering fell from the ceiling directly over the bed in which she was sleeping. She was cut and bruised about the head and face.

Little Sister

by MARGARET WIDDEMER

CHAPTER 40

THE WEDDING breakfast, champagne and all, passed in a haze.

"You know, you naughty children," she whispered enough to hear Mrs. Johnston-Hedges saying, across the Venetian lace tablecloth, "the least you can do is to secure to your generous Aunt Minnie her share of the Church estate. I understand you forgot to buy her half in her name."

"Aunt Minnie did it willingly and without any strings on it," said Bet coldly.

"That estate, when it is drained, is to be given over to the use of the penniless," Addison explained. "It was very fine of Miss Minnie."

"That," said Mrs. Johnston-Hedges even more coldly, "is just what you, Bet, have made the aunt who has supported you all your life."

"Oh, Florrie, Bessie," hurried Aunt Minnie, lifting two little flashing worn hands in deprecation, "don't call me things like that. I-I just gave them the money because I was fond of them. . . . I'm sure they'll give it all back and more, give them time."

Addison gulped his champagne. His face flushed up and his Adam's apple worked, as he took Aunt Minnie's hand.

"I have never been the recipient of such beautiful devotion," he said, obviously trying not to cry. "Elizabeth, my dear, we must show Aunt Minnie that we appreciate what she has done for us. Have you a piece of paper anywhere, Mrs. Johnston-Hedges?"

She had. Orton had been through law school for the benefit of his estates. They drew up the assignment and had it typed by Mrs. Johnston-Hedges' secretary before were brought in. Leila and Orton witnessed it. The secretary, who ate no lunch because of her figure (she had no figure), went down in the Ford to the notary public, who was devoted enough to people who ran up such large stationer's bills as the Hedges (he was a stationer) to stamp things without seeing them signed in person. The paper, in duplicate, was back before the black coffee, Addison and Aunt Minnie embraced and kissed each other before the butler and the sympathetic second man. Even Bet, now that it was done, said, waving an exhilarated hand, "Naturally, we do the generous thing by you, Aunt Minnie."

Mrs. Johnston-Hedges patted Addison and told him he was a splendid fellow and they talked for quite a long time about the beauty of being friendly enemies.

"I want our lovely old beach kept from overcrowding; and you want it overrun with people who had nothing to do with buying or building on it," she said mournfully. "And we are going, like good Americans, to put it to the test of the popular vote this fall. We shall both work to our respective ends, that is understood. Meanwhile, you and Bet are inexperienced; I want to help you to the best of my ability with advice about the most important things in your new venture. The first thing to see about, to my mind, is—"

"Oh, come along," Orton said in Leila's willing ear. "We can trust the matter to handle things. Let's go over to the club."

Leila was turning over a new leaf.

The last thing they saw was Mrs. Johnston-Hedges showing Addison on a piece of paper what was the important thing to do first. Leila didn't catch what it was, but Addison seemed to think it was a wonderful idea.

"Will it?" said Leila fervently. "In a straight line—without ever returning!"

"Oh, well—better drop in at your house and pick up a change. . . . Good girl, Leila. More like yourself. Been sort of low in your mind lately, haven't you, darling? What I did toward you for was the pep and comeback. Too much talk here about this and that. Mother's right-mindedness is all right, but hang it all, we're young and alive; got to think about ourselves."

"And how!" said Leila. "My first thought is that I don't want to play golf one bit. I walk enough, and I'm dead today anyway. Call up the stables and let's ride."

He laughed admiringly. A fact dawned on Leila. You could do what Orton told you; or you could make him—to a certain point—do what you told him. If the latter arrangement was carried out life might not be so bad.

"Ride it let," said he grinning. "Better hire me a horse," she said—she, who till now had always hated taking things. "What's a man for if he can't do things for you?"

Orton howled with glee. "Humor! That's what I like about you, Leila. When a man has a sense of humor himself he likes it in a girl. What's a man good for if you can't do him, hey?"

"Exactly!" Leila said brightly. The afternoon progressed excellently. They loathed about the veranda of the Country club, which was a comfort to Leila, who was tired; secure in the solitude that the newly engaged are known to prefer, they talked to each other. Leila was turning over a new leaf. She did not talk to Orton with the cheerful casualness that one uses with a man one has known a lifetime. She—Aunt Minnie would have said—put herself out. She told Orton what a grand person he was along all lines, even lines she wasn't specially sure of. She was admiring and devoted, intimate and provocative, and—on broad lines—amusing. It is true that toward the end of the afternoon she got to the point of telling him jokes that she had heard on the radio; but he liked them, it seemed. He liked everything she did. It was a wonderful feeling, after the battering she had been through with every-body else.

Presently they parted to dress; presently, again, they met, foregathered with a group Orton knew well and Leila well enough, the very special top-of-the-basket group, dined, laughed, stayed to dance again. It was a grand feeling, being out on a party. She threw everything behind her but the laughter and the dancing and the good dinner. It was an easy, excellent life she was stepping into, if one danced fast enough and laughed often enough. She had done too much planning and thinking and family-worrying, that was what had been the matter with her. Orton Johnston-Hedges' fiancée was turning over a new leaf that would stay turned, and Orton didn't talk about queer things you couldn't give and do.

WAR ON CROWS

A price has been placed on the black crow, "gangster" of the out-of-doors, by the state conservation department, and sportsmen are urged to shoot every crow they see. A number of crows have been released in several counties, each released bird with a band carrying a serial number attached to its leg. Hunters have been informed they would receive prizes for killing the numbered crows, the prizes ranging from $1 to $25.

Quite a number of farmers throughout this section of the state are complaining about the crows doing considerable damage and have started a little war of their own on these pests, but still the crows keep multiplying.

The state department claims that crows take a larger toll of pheasants, quail, songbirds and rabbits than hunters, while farmers and their wives claim a heavy loss of eggs and chicks due to the appetites of the crow family. And therefore war is declared.

On a drive last Sunday I noticed more crows than I've seen in many years. There seemed to be hundreds of them banded together, and in one particular spot I noticed they seemed to be holding some sort of a convention, with the orator of the day perched on top of a hog box, his audience on the ground in close proximity. And that old boy was telling them all about it, probably organizing to combat the efforts of the sportsmen to exterminate them.

It is a habit of crows to band together, and I recall one place we lived when I was a boy where crows would come by the thousands to roost in the trees in a near by woods. They commenced to arrive from all directions long before sundown, and the nearer twilight approached the more noise they would make. I used to imagine they were holding camp meeting and the constant "caw, caw" from thousands of throats, followed by intense silence, except for one leader at intervals, gave me the idea they were talking and understanding each other. And who knows but what they were!

And one of the many things that I've never been able to understand is why, with all the protection we give to game birds through stringent laws, propagation, etc., they are still scarce, while the crows, in spite of all the war we make on them, continue to multiply.

How many of you older boys ever had a pet crow? And did you split its tongue so you could teach it to talk?

Sportsmen will also be interested to know that the division of conservation is liberating considerable game throughout the state. The consignment of pheasants, portions of which are to be liberated in each county, consists of 4,500 hen birds and 3,650 cock birds, a total of 7,700. More than 600 raccoons and 2,000 rabbits are being liberated, the latter new stock to blend with the wild rabbits of forest and field.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

DONATIONS TO HOSPITAL

One of the splendid and valuable donations to Berger Hospital grounds is the Passion flower given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles McFadden, of Watt-st, this city.

This vine seems to have a special significance and symbolism, so named the Passion flower in memory of Christ's suffering. The half-open bud resembles a star, the Star of Bethlehem. In the center of each blossom there is a column which represents the cross. The three nails are seen in the stigmata. The five wounds are represented by the five anthers. The corona is the crown of thorns and the seventy-two fine purple hairs around it are the thorns themselves. The five petals and five sepals are the ten Apostles, leaving out Peter and Judas who betrayed.

The seed pod is the sponge which held the vinegar. The tendils are the scourges, and the digitate leaves the hands of his persecutors.

In the purple flower we have the robe which was put on the Saviour in mockery, while the white of the flower symbolizes his purity. Each flower grows alone on its stem, thus telling of his loneliness; the leaves grow singly, showing there is but one God. The vine trails without support, as a Christian does without divine help. And if the vine is cut off at the root, it springs up again, as Christian faith withstands temptation and survives sorrow. So each part of this interesting plant has its symbolic meaning.

This same should prevail, I believe, in any Christian church, every branch of which should be able to stand alone if cut off from the main. This, of course, would be impossible if true Christianity did not prevail.

Contract Bridge

By E. V. SHEPARD

OBLIGATORY STRATEGY

UNDER THE heading of "obligatory strategy" come all acts necessary to the accomplishment of your purpose, such as fulfillment of your contract or the defeat of an opposing contract. If you must take one or more fineses to fulfill your contract, take them. The play of the following hand illustrates several cases of obligatory strategy.

♠ K 5 4 2
♥ 9 7 3
♦ 10 8 5 2

♠ A Q J 7
♥ 10 6 2
♦ 9 4 3
♣ 7 3 2

♠ 10 8 6
♥ A Q J 4
♦ A Q J
♣ A K 5

When East continued with his no trumps, after West overcalled the fourth-hand opening call, West raised to 3-No Trumps, which South doubled, as a part of his "obligatory strategy", to show South that two probable re-entries were held by South, for the establishment and run-off of his long suit. Few players keep in mind this bit of useful strategy.

The opening lead was the Q of clubs. East passed the first trick, to run North out of the suit. Evidently South held at least the expectation of winning 3 club tricks and his 2 red Kings. The declarer took the second club trick.

To go game East must win at least 3 tricks in each major suit, plus his 2 club tricks and the Ace of diamonds. His obligatory strategy included taking a finesse in spades and another one in hearts. Lacking both the K and 9 of spades it would do no good to lead his 10 of spades in case South held the K. The 6 of spades was led. Dummy's J lost to North's K, but left the suit established, insuring 3 tricks therein.

Part of the obligatory strategy of North was to win the first spade trick, then lead back to dummy's greatest weakness, before the declarer could extract South's cards of re-entry. The 2 of diamonds was led. Another piece of obligatory strategy was for East not to allow South's K of diamonds to win, enabling South to establish clubs before East extracted the K of hearts. If the seeming impossible were true, and North held the missing K of diamonds he could have that trick later on and welcome. The Ace of diamonds was played. South played his 7. East did not even bother to take a heart finesse. He led off his Q of hearts. South passed that trick. It was possible that he might gain by doing so. When a low heart was led South won with his K, giving his side its third defensive trick. He led back his clearing 9 of clubs, hoping to later on get in with the K of diamonds. He did that, but in the meanwhile East ran out same: 3 spades, 3 hearts, 1 diamond and 2 clubs.

Poems That Live

THE SIN OF OMISSION

It isn't the thing you do, dear;
It's the thing you leave undone,
Which gives you a bit of heartache
At the setting of the sun.
The tender word forgotten,
The letter you did not write,
The flower you might have sent,
Dear,
Are your haunting ghosts
At night.

The stone you might have lifted
Out of a brother's way,
The bit of heartsome counsel
You were hurried too much to say;

The loving touch of the hand, dear,
That you had no time nor thought
The gentle and winsome tone, for
With troubles enough of your own.

For life is all too short, dear,
And sorrow is all too great;
So suffer our great compassion
That carries until too late;
And it's not the thing you do, dear,
It's the thing you leave undone,
Which gives you the bit of heart-
ache
At the setting of the sun.

Paralysis Due to Drinking Jamaica Ginger Comes Back

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

BACK IN THE days of prohibition the pressure to obtain some stimulation was so great, that in some parts of the country the citizens took to drinking Jamaica ginger.

About 1920 there was first described an epidemic of paralysis which was linked to the consumption of a number of brands of adulterated or synthetic Jamaica ginger.

The illness was characterized by extreme nausea and prostration, and after the ginger was discontinued the symptoms caused a great deal of surprise.

They were gone, however, within the first 48 hours. But within a few days more—usually five, but in some cases extending to 14, "the paralysis" came on. It began usually with cramps in the calves of the legs and later the groins, and these were followed by an inability to raise the feet—foot drop. There was staggering on attempting to walk, and swaying if the patient stood with the eyes closed. Finally the legs (it was usually in the legs, sometimes other parts were involved) were almost completely paralyzed.

Partial recovery usually occurred so that walking, although with some disability, was possible. In a few cases complete recovery was observed. But the rule was for some residual disability to remain.

Fundamentally the paralysis was due to multiple neuritis—a degeneration of the peripheral nerve trunks themselves—a condition which can be brought on by many substances such as lead, alcohol itself (although the suspicion of impurities is, always present), arsenic and diptheria.

But the small amount of alcoholic ginger which was drunk led to the search for some other ingredient. After many experiments, Maurice I. Smith of the United States public health service, announced that a poison known as tri-ortho-cresyl-phosphate was, in his conviction, the cause. And that conclusion has been generally accepted. It is supposed it was included in the synthetic ginger because its taste and smell resembled ginger.

Now, this point is that within the last few weeks there are coming into notice cases which closely resemble the old ginger paralysis. They are related to drinking cheap, unsterilized, blended, and usually illegal, whiskies and gins. Three such cases have been personally reported to me, and I have heard from different parts of the country of others. Whether tri-ortho-cresyl-phosphate itself is responsible is doubtful. But in Smith's report it says that there may be other organic compounds unknown to us which do the same thing.

The epidemic is frankly mostly gossip at present. But at least the eventualities are sufficiently serious to suggest the warning that at the present time, with liquor now legal, there is no excuse for patronizing the bootlegger or evader of the law. If you must drink, spend enough to buy good liquor.

AUXILIARY INITIATES FIVE NEW MEMBERS.

At the regular meeting of the American Legion auxiliary, Monday evening, in the Post room of Memorial hall, five new members were initiated including Mrs. E. S. Thacher, Mrs. Roy Norris, Mrs. Wayne Mogan, Misses Betty Betz and Eleanor Wiggins.

During the business the mid-winter conference, to be held Saturday at the Dresher-Wallick hotel, Columbus, was discussed and all members were urged to attend.

Following the initiation Mrs. Fred Dauenhauser, chairman of the losing team in a recent membership contest, assisted by the losers, served a delicious covered-dish supper to members of the winning team and new members. About forty persons enjoyed the supper served at a table attractively decorated with Valentine colors and centered with a heart tree.

BRIDGE CLUB ENTERTAINED

Members of her bridge club were guests of Miss Nellie Riffle, E. Main-st., Monday evening, when she entertained at her home. Mrs. Marion Sensenbrenner was a substituting guest.

The enjoyable hours spent in cards in play at two tables were brought to a close with the awarding of prizes to Mrs. John Bolender, Miss Riffle and Mrs. Fred Donnelly. Mrs. Sensenbrenner received a guest favor.

MRS. CELLAR GUEST AT LUNCHEON IN BEXLEY

Mrs. Wilson F. Cellar, Montclair-ave., attended the one o'clock luncheon of the Women's club of the Lumberman's association Monday at the Wonder Tea room in Bexley.

Following the luncheon the group were guests at the home of Mrs. E. R. Clarridge in Bexley, where officers were elected and a book review given.

Mrs. Clark Will, Mrs. Frank Bennett, Miss Ann Bennett and Mrs. Harry Heffner heard the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra at Memorial hall in Columbus Monday night.

SALES TAX RULINGS

The sales tax section of the State Tax Commission has issued a number of rulings affecting various lines of business. Those of interest to Pickaway-co residents will be published in this column at intervals.

BARBER SHOPS

Barber and beauty shop operators are the consumers of the various items which they use or consume in the rendition of their services. As such consumers they will pay the tax on all sales of merchandise to them for use in connection with their business, including equipment and such articles as bay rum, shaving soaps, hair tonic, powder, rouge, lipstick, etc. Such barber and beauty shop operators will be required to collect the tax on articles which they sell in package form and will be required to have a vendor's license for this purpose. Purchases of such items as they intend to resell only in package form will not be subject to the tax.

WATCH REPAIRMEN

Watch repairmen are vendors within the meaning of the act and as such vendors will be required to purchase a vendor's license and collect the tax on all sales of tangible personal property. If a lump sum is charged, which includes the charge for service and the charge for tangible personal property transferred, the tax will be computed on the full amount. If the charge for service and the charge for the items of tangible personal property are separately stated, the tax will be computed on the amount charged for the tangible personal property and no tax will apply on the charge for service.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reichelderfer and daughter, Peggy Ann, returned to their home in Jackson-twp., Monday, after a week-end visit with Mr. Reichelderfer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Reichelderfer of Columbus.

It was expected the Ontario would tow the schooner and the five men still aboard to Pago Pago.

The rescue of the schooner's crew climaxed four days of distress messages. The Seth Parker first reported herself in trouble last Friday night. The Australia veered from her destination—Balboa, C. Sunday night the schooner flashed an SOS which had been preceded by numerous messages to "stand by." The Australia again sped to the rescue, reaching the Seth Parker a second time last night.

HIGH SCORING MAY FEATURE COUNTY MEET

More Than 1,000 Points May Be Scored in County Tournament Play

A grand total of upwards of 1,000 points may be scored in the 1935 Pickaway-co high school basketball tournament to be held here, Saturday, February 13, Friday, March 1 and Saturday, March 2, coaches and close students of the sport in this section predict.

Seventeen high school teams, 13 boys and 4 girls, will compete for honors in the 1935 meet and the tournament will involve a total of 17 games.

In advancing the theory it may be a sensational, high scoring affair, the predictors point out that the per game average may run from 50 to 70 points per contest.

They reason that the teams will be at the peak of their form at the tournament and that the season is a week longer this year than ordinarily, due to the calendar bringing a week-end on the first of March.

The few changes in the basketball rules this season also have been favorable to more scoring and with the tournament games to be hotly contested and closely officiated plenty of field goals as well as countless free throws should result.

Where in past year tournament game scores have more often ranged around 20 points per team per game, close students of the sport believe this year that many games will be won with 35 points or more and some lost by teams scoring as high as 30 points.

With higher scoring in prospect fans are in for an even bigger treat at this year's tourney, as it is the thrill of seeing the ball zip through the nets that sends the spectators into wild applause and screams.

BENTON RELEASED

CINCINNATI, Feb. 12—Given his unconditional release by the Cincinnati Reds, Larry Benton, a pitcher and a 10-year man in major league baseball, was looking for a new job today.

Benton started in the majors with Boston in 1924 and as a Giant in 1928 led the National league in the number of games won. He came to Cincinnati in 1930 from New York in a trade that sent Hughie Critz to the Giants.

His release was in line with the policy of the Reds' manager, Charley Dresen, who said that he would try to rebuild the Reds with young players.

Girls Play Tonight

A real basketball game is scheduled for the high school gymnasium this evening when the Ashville and Scioto-twp girls tangle in a play-off game here—Circleville was selected because it is a neutral court—Two weeks ago the teams played to a deadlock at Commercial Point—The game is important in that Scioto-twp by winning will have a chance to become the fourth team in the girls' tournament—A defeat would oust them from any chance at all

MAC SMITH STARS

GLENDAL, Cal., Feb. 12—MacDonald Smith, pride of the Scots and master of the perfectly grooved golf swing, today moved on to Palm Springs $1,150 richer by virtue of his dramatic win of the Oakland $6,500 open tournament here.

Out of the running through three rounds after winning the 72-hole medal competition much as he pleased, the Carnoustie master began to bear down in the final 18 holes. He trailed the leader, Horton Smith, by four points as the last round started.

Mac was paired with Johnny Revolta and Jimmy Hines. Both were hot. Revolta had four birdies in a row on the first nine and was still beaten by Smith, who was out in 33. Jimmy Hines, playing even par, was beaten by both.

Coming home Smith neither wavered nor faltered and wound up the day at the 18th green when he chipped one into the cup from fifty yards away for a sparkling 3, a 66 for the round, a clean sweep in the Nassau match play round and first money in the tournament.

Use Two Officials

The game starts at 7:30 and will have two officials, Vic Kolb and Gar Griffith—On the small court with two officials there will be plenty of fouls seen and they will be called so the game may be determined by the charity line—Admission price is 10 and 20 cents so a large crowd is expected

Waterloo at Canal

Canal Winchester is putting on a gala night Wednesday with the Waterloo Wonders providing the entertainment—If the Wonders have rested since their strenuous work last week they will really put on a show; if they are still tired they will still defeat Canal Winchester easily—This may be your opportunity to see this amazing team—The Canal Winchester auditorium will seat 1,000 persons with the game starting at 7 o'clock

Buckeyes Surprise

This amazing Ohio State cage team is doing things in a big way in recent weeks—Coach Olson seems to have struck upon a winning combination in Wilson, Whitlinger, Thomas, Beltner and Dye—Had the Bucks only beaten Purdue last week in that 42-41 heart-breaker they would have been right near the top—Northwestern was about as easy at Iowa last night—The victory was the Bucks sixth in the Big Ten to three defeats

Girl Scout News

Girl Scout troop No. 4 held its regular meeting Friday afternoon, Feb. 8, in the basement of the Presbyterian church. Handicraft was worked on during the first part of the meeting. A covered dish supper is to be held next Tuesday night. Different patrols were put in charge of entertainment, serving and cleaning up for that night. We sang songs and played "The Bear went over the Mountain". We then closed with the friendship circle and taps.

Henry Picard

Scoring 286, Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., professional, won the Agua Caliente gold sweepstakes and $1,000 in added money. It was Picard's second important tournament in 11 years of golf. He won the North-South championship last spring.

THOMAS LEADS BUCKEYE TEAM IN 41-29 TILT

Ashland Center is Star As Ohioans Continue Their Big Ten Drive

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 12—Earl Thomas, lanky Ashland youth, was the "fair-haired" boy among Ohio State University basketball fans today.

Ring up five baskets, Thomas led the Buck basketball team to a 41 to 29 victory here last night over Northwestern. A crowd of 5,909 persons witnessed the game.

Northwestern put up an aggressive front but was outclassed by the fast-breaking Buckeye offense which took advantage of the Wildcats' spotty defensive play to score a total of 16 field goals and nine free throws.

While Thomas was the main-spring of the Buckeye attack, he shared scoring honors with Warren Whitlinger, mite forward, who also garnered 10 points. Capt. Bill Beltner, Wilson and "Tippy" Dye added to the Wildcat worry. Beltner tallied nine points with four field goals and one free throw. Dye contributed six points with two baskets from the field and two from the free throw line.

Lyle Fisher, Wildcat forward, was the only player of the visiting team able to hit the hoop consistently. He hung up four baskets and two fouls.

The Buck team, which played consistent ball throughout, held the Purple quintet mostly to long shots of the "prayer" variety. They completely dominated the game except for a few minutes in the first half.

CHICAGO, Feb. 12—Indiana university, with a 34 to 30 victory over Iowa, today was tied with Purdue for first place in the Western conference basketball race.

Another of last night's four conference games saw Wisconsin pressing close to the league leaders with a hard won 26 to 24 decision over Chicago. Minnesota dealt Michigan its fifth defeat 29 to 26, and Ohio State scored an easy 41 to 29 win over Northwestern.

Washington Merry-go-round

Roosevelt soon would give labor its turn at the favor counter.

Leaks

Senator Alva B. Adams is bothered about "leak" trouble. Elected in 1932 as a Progressive Democrat, the little Colorado banker was once sorely discomfited by a leak from a barred committee room to the effect that he had voted to emasculate the Stock Exchange Control Bill.

Now another instance of his under-cover warring on the Administration has leaked out.

When the President's $4,800,000,000 work-relief bill was being fought in the Senate Appropriations Committee, of which Adams is a member, he not only joined with Old Guard Republicans in trying to slash $2,000,000,000 from the fund but was the sponsor of this motion.

Congress Rookie

Thirty years old, W. Sterling Cole of Bath, N. Y., is the youngest member of the opposition. In Capitol corridors, he is called "The Republican baby from Bath."

It was only an accident that sent him to Congress, Cole says modestly. He ran for election with no expectation of victory, merely hoping to get acquainted in the district and improve his budding law practice. But the people of the district seemed to like him.

Baby Cole has not taken the floor as yet, doesn't intend to until he has learned the ropes. He says the only excuse he would have for speaking now would be to impress the folks back home, and he doesn't care about that.

So he is watching the show. What amazes him most is the spectacle of Democrats who have opposed a measure in committee, falling in line when their vote is to be recorded on the floor.

Merry-Go-Round

Biggest recent laugh in the House came when Texas' Tom Blanton addressed Speaker Joe Byrns as "Your Honor" . . . Washington's Farewell Address will be read in the House on February 22. Newsmen forecast an attendance of less than fifty members, mostly rookies . . . Congressman Bur

INSANITY ANGLE ENTERS TRIAL OF TULSA COLLEGE BOY

LOEB-LEOPOLD ANGLE HEARD

All Prospective Jurors Questioned Concerning Testimony of Alienists

PAWNEE, Okla., Feb. 12.—Phil Kennamer's trial for the murder of his young college student friend, John Gorrell, took on the tinge of the famous Loeb-Leopold trial in Chicago today.

An assortment of 12 red-faced, horny handed sons of toil, farmers, gasoline station keepers, oil workers and cattlemen, sat in the jury box in Pawnee's spick and span new court house and heard defense attorneys discuss the insanity defense plea and the art of testimony by alienists.

These twelve men are tentative jurors. They have been accepted for the time being by state and defense but more than half a dozen peremptory challenges remain to each side and all of the present, tentative jury may be thrown out before the day is over.

Insanity Inserted
"Do you believe in the insanity plea if it is presented in good faith?" Is one of the questions hurled at the men in the box.

"Would you consider the testimony of an alienist as expert and final in determining the sanity or insanity of a defendant?" is another.

When court opened today it seemed unlikely that the jury would be completed before night; possibly it may be Wednesday afternoon before 12 men acceptable

CALM AS MURDER TRIAL BEGINS

Phil Kennamer, 19, accused of the fatal shooting of John Gorrell, Jr., student dentist, is shown calmly smoking a cigarette in his cell at Tulsa, Okla., before being taken to court.

to both the defense and the state are passed in the jury box. Even the total venire of 70 men jurors may be exhausted and a new venire called before the 12 men who will decide the fate of the 19-year-old son of Oklahoma's federal judge, Franklin Kennamer, are selected.

Is young Phil an ego-maniac? Did he often discuss the "perfect crime" just as Leopold and Loeb plotted?

Was he insane when young Gorrell was shot to death in his automobile? (Kennamer has confessed he killed him).

Did he know right from wrong that Thanksgiving night? Some of these questions have already been asked the tentative jurors. The other may be asked today.

Kennamer Cool

Meanwhile the cold nonchalance and poise of the youthful defendant amazes hardened news writers, attorneys and court attaches. Never before in the history of the southwest has such an optimistic youth faced the shadow of the electric chair.

and un-Americans everywhere."

Reilly charged that Colonel Lindbergh was "stabbed in the back by the disloyalty of those who worked for him." He shouted insinuations against Miss Betty Gow, the Lindbergh baby's nurse and her former admirer, Henry ("Red") Johnson, and against the dead Violet Sharpe, maid in the home of Mrs. Dwight Morrow, Lindbergh's mother-in-law, and also against the late Oliver Whately, butler in the Lindbergh home.

Reilly assailed Dr. John F. ("Jafsie") Condon, the Lindbergh intermediary, who paid the $50,000 ransom, saying "Condon is behind something in this case that is unholy."

Hauptmann, according to Reilly, did not kidnap the baby, did not collect the ransom and had nothing to do with the crime. He characterized the case the state built up against the defendant as a "movie scenario." He charged the evidence against Hauptmann was "planted."

Judge Thomas Trenchard's charge was scheduled to follow Wilentz' plea after which the case will go to the jury of eight men and four women.

It was indicated this afternoon that Judge Trenchard would not deliver his charge to the jury until Wednesday morning.

PIPE WORK IN ASHVILLE NOW IS UNDER WAY

Bartling and Son resumed work on house services in Ashville last Thursday. Operations were started on Scioto and Main-st and will be finished by streets.

While the contract does not so specify, it was hoped these lateral pipes could be pushed from the Main line to the basement, yet this method to date has not been a success, and a small ditching machine cutting a ten-inch trench is in readiness and will have to be used where advisable. It is intended to use this machine for trenches across streets and if necessary to use it through the lawns.

This small caterpillar will be run on planks and will not do much damage to the yards. This work is to be pushed as rapidly as possible.

RUGS FURNITURE STOVES

Everybody Says—it's the Most Beautiful of All Three!

AND BENEATH THIS BEAUTY IS THE STRENGTH OF STEEL!

New Plymouth Called "Smartest, Most Luxurious of 'All Three' Low-priced Cars"

BEAUTY SPEAKS for itself! Just one look at this year's low-priced cars tells you Plymouth is the best-looking of "All Three."

It's bigger. Its streamlined body is smarter. Wide-vision windshield... airplane-type fenders... deep, wide doors... all suggest its speed and power.

Safety is also beyond argument. Beneath Plymouth's streamlined beauty is the strength of an All-Steel Body! And Plymouth is still the lowest-priced car with genuine Hydraulic Brakes.

As for riding comfort... the same engineers who perfected scientific distribution of weight in the famous "Air-flow" cars now give Plymouth the same "Floating Ride." New-type springs, shock absorbers and sway eliminator end bumps, jolts and lurches.

In your own way, by your own standards, compare Plymouth with the other low-priced cars before you buy. On display at all Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler dealers. Ask about the Official Chrysler Motors Commercial Credit Plan.

Still one of the lowest-priced cars built!

Only Plymouth gives you All Four:

1. GENUINE HYDRAULIC BRAKES
2. SAFETY-STEEL BODY
3. DISTRIBUTION OF WEIGHT

Farley On Committee To Collect Party Deficit From Federal Workers

WASHINGTON — Big Jim Farley is at it again. The tens of thousands of Government employees residing in Washington are being vigorously solicited for contributions to pay off the half-million dollar deficit of the Democratic National Committee. The campaign is being conducted most adroitly. Nominally Jim has nothing to do with it, the solicitations being made by the "National Democratic Council of the District of Columbia."

But prominently displayed in the upper right-hand corner of its very pointed letter is the following:

National Officers
James A. Farley, Chairman.
Walter J. Cummings, Treasurer
And in the left-hand corner is still more significant information: Democratic Finance Committee of the District of Columbia (authorized by the Democratic National Committee)
Jos. J. Cotter
Chairman
Warren C. Usrey
Secretary

The letter itself reads, in part: "As you will see from the attached appeal, we are making an effort to assist the National Democratic Committee in paying off its deficit."

If you can help, won't you please let me hear from you as soon as convenient.

JOS. J. COTTER, Chairman.

The attached "appeal" consists of a blank pledge. It is headed "To Friends of the New Deal." In italics at the bottom is this heart-warming announcement:

"Note: With a view of broadening the base of participation in party affairs, the National Committee has decided to limit contributions to a maximum of $1,000.00."

Discouraged
"Well, Senator," said a friend to George Norris the day after Roosevelt had spanked A. F. of L. leaders and dismissed a group of militant liberals from the AAA, "what do you think of the New Deal now?"

"I don't want to think about it," was the dolorous reply.

Disturbed
Despite the President's snappy rejoinder to the A. F. of L., his inner council is far from happy over the rift with organized labor.

None of them had anticipated the fierce outburst of indignation that greeted renewal of the auto code. It had been extended three times before with nothing more disastrous than a little labor muttering and Richberg and the President's other advisers thought this was all that would happen again.

What they overlooked is the fact that A. F. of L. leadership is on a hot spot from within its own ranks. Left wing rank-and-filers are flaying their officers for lack of aggressiveness.

So when the President, without even going through the motions of consulting labor leaders, renewed the code, they had to make a show of fight.

What is worrying Administration masterminds is not so much the ire of labor leaders—always comparatively easy to soothe—but the effect of the clash on the laboring public and upon Senate Progressives.

The latter are known to be decidedly glum over recent Administration trends.

And despite the President's vigorous right swing, he cannot afford politically to break with the liberals. They are powerful factors in sections that will be very crucial in the 1936 campaign.

It was no surprise, therefore, when a rearming tip emanated from inner council quarters that

COUNTY DADS MAY EXPAND COURT HOUSE

Discuss PWA Application In Effort To Add 5 Rooms To Building

TALK BRIDGE, TOO

Present Structure is Now Overcrowded

Possibility was expressed today that an addition may be erected to the court house with the aid of Public Works funds. The county commissioners have discussed the question with Relief Director Howard Irwin and Engineer Harry Griner and are expected to sign an application for PWA funds with which to do the work.

It is estimated, roughly, that the addition would cost $50,000. It would be placed between the new garage, for which a foundation is now being dug, and the treasurer's office. According to preliminary plans the addition, which would relieve much overcrowding in the court house, would include five new rooms.

Discuss Bridge, Too
The commissioners are also discussing obtaining PWA funds for construction of a new bridge over the road between Whisler and Laurelville. This is a much needed improvement, they say.

City council has already filed its application for public works estimated to cost nearly a million.

LANCASTER, Feb. 12— Thirteen public works projects including a municipal sewage disposal plant and a municipal light and power plant have been proposed for this city in applications sent to L. A. Boulay, PWA chief for Ohio.

The projects total $675,753 in estimated value.

RESIGNATION OF AMRINE ACCEPTED

COLUMBUS, Feb. 12—W. F. Amrine's resignation as superintendent of the London prison farm, submitted because he resented the administration's demand for political data on his civil service employees, was formally accepted today by Gov. Martin L. Davey, effective March 1 "or sooner if he desires."

"No man is indispensable," said Davey in accepting the resignation the whole effect of which he branded "an apparent effort to embarrass the administration by pretending to defend the spirit of civil service, when as a matter of fact his action smacks of partisan opposition and unfriendly maneuver."

FAYETTE COUNTIANS SUE B. & O. RAILROAD

COLUMBUS, Feb. 12—Three petitions, asking damages against the Baltimore and Ohio railroad company were on file in the federal court here today.

All three plaintiffs, Nate Dunn, Rose Alexander and Arizona Flint, all of Washington, C. H., charge they suffered injuries when the car driven by Dunn was struck by a B. & O. train at Washington C. H. on June 24, 1934.

Dunn seeks $35,000, Alexander $20,000 and Flint $7,500. The petitions were filed by Attorney W. S. Paxson of Washington C. H. and M. L. Bernstein of Cleveland.

Girl, Struck By Brother, Near Death

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 12—Helen Katherine Williams, 8, was believed dying today, her skull fractured in three places by a hammer which her half brother confessed wielding because he had been thwarted in his desire for a pet dog.

William Hardy, 21, the half brother, confessed, according to police, that he beat the child with the hammer, stuffed her unconscious body into the rumble seat of his car, and then told his mother Helen had been kidnapped.

"I wanted a dog, but my mother said I couldn't have one because it made my sister nervous," Hardy asserted, told police. "I just figured I she wasn't there I probably would get the dog."

THIRD SON OF FAMILY DEAD

Creeping Paralysis Fatal to John Dietrich, 17, of St. Clairsville

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Feb. 12—Death today outwitted the efforts of medical science to discover the cause of the baffling form of creeping paralysis that has afflicted the male members of the Dietrich family for the last three generations.

The third and last son of Mr. and Mrs. George Dietrich succumbed at his home in Belmont near here yesterday afternoon.

Influenza was the direct cause of John Dietrich's death, Dr. E. W. Turner, the family physician said, but it was the mysterious racking paralysis that undermined his health and left him prey to the common disease.

Five days ago, John's 16-year-old brother, Glenn, died from influenza brought on by a physical condition weakened from the same creeping paralysis. Another brother died from the disease several years ago.

Medical science has studied the mysterious paralysis, but without success in determining its nature that has made its victims the male members of the Dietrich family since 1860.

The disease, which twists the bones of its victims into grotesque shapes, (Continued on Page Six.)

BELGRANO WARNS OF RED MENACE

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 12—The red menace in America, if Lincoln were alive today, would concern him far more than does the present momentary lack of golden prosperity.

The American Legion is bending every effort to stamp out this menace.

This was the declaration made here today by Frank M. Belgrano, Jr., national commander of the American Legion, in a fiery address delivered at the first annual American Legion pilgrimage to the tomb of Abraham Lincoln in Oak Ridge cemetery here. The pilgrimage was one of several programs staged in commemoration of the 126th anniversary of Lincoln's birth.

WORRIED FOR SON'S SAFETY, CHARLES C. McALLISTER DIES; CREW TAKEN FROM SCHOONER

Father Of Maynard McAllister Falls Dead At Home Early Tuesday

LISTENED FOR NEWS

Had Resided Here For Five Years

Worried concerning the safety of his son, Maynard, 24, cook aboard the distressed Seth Parker, pleasure schooner on a world cruise, Charles C. McAllister, 46, fell dead at his home, 557 E. Franklin-st., Tuesday at 2:30 a. m.

Mr. McAllister was suffering from heart trouble and had been under a physician's care intermittently for the past year. He had listened to his radio Monday evening presumably for news concerning his son and the ship which has been buffeted by heavy seas and a gale for the past three days. He became ill about 10 p. m. and a neighbor Mrs. Samuel Hawkes, who lives across the street, was called to the home by Margy Ellen, McAllister's 11-year-old stepdaughter. Dr. E. R. Austin was called and administered aid.

Fell Dead On Floor

Mr. McAllister retired and about 2 o'clock left his bed to go to the bathroom. He fell as he entered the bathroom and died there. Sunday afternoon, Mr. McAllister received a telegram from his son saying all was well. Later reports that another storm had struck the ship added to his fears and this, it is believed, hastened his demise.

Mrs. McAllister was in Mt. Vernon at the time of her husband's death.

Mr. McAllister was a native of Williamsport being born there Jan. 19, 1889 a son of Wesley and Olive Tripp McAllister. He spent the greater part of his life in Williamsport working with his father as a blacksmith and as an automobile mechanic. He later removed to Columbus where he cooked in a restaurant. He came to Circleville five years ago and had been employed at the J. W. Eshelman & Son Milling Co.

Widow Pastor's Daughter

He is survived by his widow, Vera, Marguerite, McAllister, daughter of Rev. M. R. White, Chillicothe United Brethren minister; two sons, Charles Maynard, who is on the Seth Parker, and Clark of Williamsport; two stepdaughters, Margy Ellen and Betty Jane; two sisters, Mrs. Harry Hamilton and Mrs. Joe West, of Williamsport and a brother, Thomas, of Columbus.

He was a member of Morris Chapel United Brethren church. Funeral arrangements in charge of the Albaugh Co. have not been completed.

GRIFFEY TAKES RIDE

Robert Griffey, W. Main-st., who beat his wife then tried to prevent Officer Fred Fitzpatrick from putting him in the city jail, entered the workhouse at Cincinnati today to serve out $300 and costs assessed him by Mayor W. B. Cady Monday on charges of assault and battery and resisting an officer.

It will take Griffey 238 days to serve the fines and costs.

Griffey was taken to Cincinnati by Officer William McCrady and Abe Greenlee.

40.5 Miles of Electric Lines in County Advised

The state relief commission in a preliminary report of the statewide rural electrification survey recommended construction of 40.5 miles of electric wiring in five Pickaway-co townships.

The complete report of the commission listed 3,040 miles of power lines in 680 townships in 76 of the 88 Ohio counties. The estimated cost would be $3,648,000.

The proposal, it was said, was submitted to federal authorities but what further action may be taken will depend upon what orders the state receives from Washington after Congress acts on the proposed $4,880,000,000 relief measure.

It was explained the purpose of the survey was to obtain information showing the necessity and feasibility of constructing new and additional power lines in areas not now served. It was estimated that the cost of construction of power lines per mile would be about $1,200.

The survey will be continued to determine the availability of material and possible prices, the cost of right-of-ways, tree trimming and tree removal and the re-creation of power companies whose lines would be tapped.

CORNES RECEIVE BIG GRAPE FRUIT

Dr. and Mrs. G. S. Corne, N. Court-st., have received a basket containing 20 large grape fruit each weighing one and three-quarters pounds. They were sent by their niece, Mrs. Lillian Kling, wife of Dr. William Kling, who is in the dental corps stationed at Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, Texas.

ITALY READY FOR TROUBLE

Demands Apology from Abyssinia and Indemnity For Deaths

LONDON, Feb. 12—With reserve troops called up and fully prepared for hostilities, Italy has demanded an abject apology from Abyssinia as a result of new clashes on the frontier of Italian Somaliland which cost scores of lives, it was stated in an exchange telegraph dispatch from Rome today.

The dispatch declared that Italy insists Abyssinian troops salute the Italian flag with bare heads. In addition, the dispatch stated, Italy has demanded guarantees from Abyssinia with respect to frontiers and insisted upon appointment of a mixed commission under auspices of the League of Nations to correct the boundary line between Abyssinia and Italian Somaliland.

Indemnities are also demanded, the dispatch said, Italy asking 1,000 thalers (approximately $500) for each Italian killed and 150 thalers for every man wounded. Italian sources estimate 200 native Italian troops killed.

Meanwhile, the situation remained tense, with reports stating 30,000 Abyssinian troops mobilized on the frontier. Emperor Haile Selassie of Abyssinia was reported calling up all classes of reserves.

Shortly after a message was intercepted from the master of the

Worry Over Threats Blamed For Flight Of Abduction Victim

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 12—Threatening letters and worry over the part she played in prosecuting her kidnappers were blamed today for the flight of Mary McElroy, vivacious young daughter of City Manager H. F. McElroy, that terminated at Normal, Ill.

Returned by airplane in a near-hysterical condition, Miss McElroy was at her father's home today recovering from the experience. The 26-year-old girl, kidnapped for $30,000 ransom in 1933, nearly fainted on the arm of her father when she was assisted from the plane last night.

Before Miss McElroy stepped down from the chartered plane her sister-in-law, Mrs. Henry McElroy Jr., collapsed at the flying field and was carried to her automobile.

But Governor Laffoon, immediately upon his return, revoked the order of extradition.

FLAMES KILL FIVE IN OHIO

Four Burn In Cincinnati Apartment Fire; Oil Lamp Kills Another

CINCINNATI, Feb. 12—Trapped in their second floor apartment in a home in suburban Norwood when fire swept through the residence, four persons were dead today and two others were in a hospital suffering from burns.

Victims of the blaze were Hugh Mitchell, 33, a salesman, his son, James, two and one-half years old, Mrs. Freda Doerger, 29, and the latter's daughter, Mary, 5.

Raymond Doerger, 32, the father of Mary, Mrs. Josephine Mitchell, wife of one of the victims, and Alvin, a nine-months-old son of the Doergers were rescued by police and firemen.

MANSFIELD, Feb. 12—Mrs. George Beer, 32, was fatally burned today when fire caused by an exploding oil lamp destroyed the Beer home nine miles southeast of here.

When the first exploded, Mrs. Beer was in her bedroom. Her daughter, Helen, 14, threw a blanket over her and dragged her from the burning room but she died a short time later in a hospital here.

STRAWSER JAILED AS THEFT SUSPECT

Arthur Strawser, 40, of W. Main-st., was in jail today for investigation on a charge of $104 from the pockets of William H. Grubbs, Jackson-twp., Saturday night.

Grubbs was wearing a "penny ante" party at Strawser's home, he told police, and went to sleep on a bed. When he awakened his money was gone.

Marshall Gibson, W. Main-st., who was questioned Monday was released by police Monday evening.

JURY MAY NOT BE GIVEN CASE UNTIL MORNING

State's Attorney Calls Hauptmann "Lowest Animal In World"

"AN EGO-MANIAC"

Defends Members of Lindbergh Household

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

COURTROOM FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 12—"Bruno Hauptmann—public enemy number one of the world!"

Pointing his finger at the man accused of the kidnapping and murder of the Lindbergh baby, Attorney General David T. Wilentz today hurled this characterization at the pale-faced defendant during the state's closing summation to the jury today at "the trial of the century." He demanded the death penalty for Hauptmann.

Hauptmann, who wept yesterday when his own lawyer addressed the jury, did not bat an eye as Wilentz branded him the arch-criminal of the universe.

Wilentz declared that a man who would kill the Lindbergh baby would not be an American—he would have to be, he said, a man with ice water in his veins instead of blood.

"An ego-maniac, the kind of a man who could keep a secret," shouted Wilentz. "The type of a man who would never tell a thing if death itself threatened him."

It was at this point that Wilentz wheeled and pointed at Hauptmann and called him "Public enemy number one of the world!"

"Lowest in World"

"We have found the animal who committed this crime," he cried. "There he is, the lowest kind of animal in this world!"

Wilentz ridiculed the defense claim that it has been without funds. He insisted Hauptmann's defense received plenty of funds from various sources and pointed out that it had been able to employ one of the most noted criminal lawyers in the country.

The Attorney General assailed what he termed the defense tactics in assassinating the character of respectable persons who have come to aid the state in this case. He warmly defended his own witnesses.

He had some of the state witnesses stand up in court—men such as Colonel H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of the New Jersey state police; Police Inspector Henry Bruckmann of New York City, and William Frank of the United States Treasury Department. He vigorously defended their records and their motives in coming to testify for the state in the Hauptmann trial.

Hits Defense Funds

Wilentz, in speaking of defense funds, said he thought they got money "from drunks, idiots, fools."

THE GRIM TEACHER

MANY heartache has been caused by the business depression. Many a fortune has been lost as one of its results. Its effects have gone even so far as to be responsible for the loss of human lives. It has been a ruthless thing; this last depression — a terrible thing.

Yet, with all the trouble and misery that has come out of the economic distress, one cannot but see the value that it has had on the lives of the average family of today — especially in regard to the youth of adolescent age.

Prior to the time when the sting of the depression was first felt to its fullness, money was considered the dominating power in the world. It still is to some extent, but in most cases at the present time a man is not judged merely by his accumulation of wealth. The world has learned that a man can be quite a good citizen of the community and still not be on top of the "financial pile". It is possible to have a good time under normal conditions without riding through on a roll of "greenbacks".

Generally speaking, the pleasure of the world have been reduced to a less complex nature. The family dwelling has become once more a home — capable of sustaining amusement and not merely a place to cast one's tired body. Family members have realized their mutual worth and the degree of consolation that comes from it.

Hard and relentless as a teacher as the business depression has been, it has been a good teacher — a thorough teacher. It taught the value of the family, the home and money to those who had lost it. Surely these things should compensate in a measure for the hardships that it wrought.

FOOL PROOF

PROBABLY as long as explosives are there will be danger to the careless, but an explosive which needs a dynamite cartridge to set it off is as near foolproof as anything. That is the claim for nitro-ammonia, or nitramon, as developed for use in quarries and mines. Accidents are expected to decrease because of it. A worker may let his heavy tools fall upon it, he may build a bonfire alongside a heap of it. Nothing will happen. They speak of it as combining the safety of water with detonating power greater than that of TNT.

The allusion to its explosive ability indicates that while it may be safe to fool with this stuff, it were well to be a long way off when it is induced to let go. If it is 20 per cent stronger than TNT it is capable of working havoc to its surroundings. Man is apparently approaching a point at which he will not have to rely upon faith when he wants to move mountains.

Moreover it is comforting to have evidence of progress in the field of domestic violence, so to speak, when there is so much more talk of new and death-dealing chemicals, contraptions and lethal machines to be used in what everybody now speaks of with assurance as The Next War.

Probably the war plans are going ahead without interruption, but meanwhile the scientists are discovering how we may save lives rather than destroy them in every-day tasks. We suspect, incidentally, that more scientific thought than most people know about goes into making the world safer; the death-dealing devices merely get all the publicity.

A flop is any high official who can no longer keep Americans excited.

If he decides not to quit smoking, after all, his gripe is getting better.

So live that witnesses perjuring themselves for you will not be trapped before they leave the stand.

A hick town is a place where there's no excitement except when Mrs. Smith hears what Mrs. Jones said.

Senator Long has charged that an assault has been plotted against him. A lot of people will hope he's right.

Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan has sold six valuable paintings for $1,500,000. Well, he probably needs the money.

Congressman O'Malley, of Wisconsin, complains that capitalists are never seen in the front line at war. The same complaint might also be applied to generals.

The one certain change to be effected by the Townsend plan for relief is that those who are in the poorhouse now will leave and their places will be taken by those now on the outside.

Subscribers to the stock of the Franklin Shoe Co. decided on immediate payment of 25 per cent of stock and 10 per cent the first of each month until the full amount was paid.

25 YEARS AGO

The Norfolk & Western railroad company purchased two acres of land in Pickaway-twp. of Evan Phillips for $500 and two and one-fourth acres from Miss Dakota Lutz for $400. The company planned to use the property for a coal- and watering station.

Hart Dones, of New Holland, was appointed a cadet at West Point military academy. He was selected by the war department upon recommendation of Congressman Keifer.

Mrs. John G. Jefferies, W. Mill-st., was severely injured when a large section of plastering fell from the ceiling directly over the bed in which she was sleeping. She was cut and bruised about the head and face.

Little Sister

CHAPTER 40

The wedding breakfast, champagne and all, passed in a haze.

"You know, you naughty children," she wakened enough to hear Mrs. Johnston-Hedges saying, across the Venetian lace tablecloth, "the least you can do is to secure to your generous Aunt Minnie her share of the Church estate. I understand you forgot to buy her half in her name."

"Aunt Minnie did it willingly and without any strings on it," said Bet coldly.

"That estate, when it is drained, is to be given over to the use of the penniless," Addison explained. "It was very fine of Miss Minnie."

"That," said Mrs. Johnston-Hedges even more coldly, "is just what you, Bet, have made the aunt who has supported you all your life."

"Oh, Florrie, Bessie," hurried Aunt Minnie, lifting two little flashing worn hands in deprecation, "don't call me things like that. I—just gave them the money because I was fond of them. . . . I'm sure they'll give it all back and more, give them that."

Addison gulped his champagne. His face flushed up and his Adam's apple worked, as he took Aunt Minnie's hand.

"I have never been the recipient of such beautiful devotion," he said, "truly trying not to cry. 'Elizabeth, my dear, was what Aunt Minnie that we appreciate what she has done for us. Have you a piece of paper anywhere, Mrs. Johnston-Hedges?'"

She had. Orton had been through law school for the benefit of his estate and had it typed by Mrs. Johnston-Hedges' secretary before the heart-shaped ice cream molds were brought in. Leila and Orton witnessed it. The secretary, who ate no lunch because of her figure (she had no figure), went down in the Ford to the notary public, who was devoted enough to people who ran up such large stationer's bills as the Hedges (he was a stationer) to stamp things without seeing them signed in person. The paper, in duplicate, was back before the black coffee. Addison and Aunt Minnie embraced and kissed each other before the butler and the sympathetic second man. Even Bet, now that it was done, said, waving an exhilarated hand, "Naturally, we do the generous thing by you, Aunt Minnie."

Mrs. Johnston-Hedges patted Addison and told him how splendid a fellow and they talked for quite a long time about the beauty of being friendly enemies.

"I want our lovely old beach kept from overcrowding; and you want it overrun with people who had nothing to do with buying or building on the site of my instant things. And we are going, like good Americans, to put it to the test of the popular vote this fall. We shall both work to our respective ends, that is understood. Meanwhile, you and Bet are inexperienced; I want to help you to the best of my ability with advice about the most important things in your new venture. The first thing to see about, to my mind, is—"

"Oh, come along," Orton said in Leila's willing ear. "We can trust the matter to handle things. Let's go over to the club."

The last thing they saw was Mrs. Johnston-Hedges showing Addison on a piece of paper what was the important thing to do first. Leila didn't catch what it was, but Addison seemed to think it was a wonderful idea.

"Will it?" said Leila fervently. "In a straight line—without ever returning!"

"Oh, well—better drop in at your house and pick up a change. . . . Good girl, Leila. More like yourself. Been sort of low in your mind lately, haven't you, darling? What I always liked you for was the pep and comeback. Too much talk here about this and that. Mother's right-mindedness is all right, but hang it all, we're young and alive; got to think about ourselves."

"And how!" said Leila. "My first thought is that I don't want to play golf one bit. I walk enough, and I'm dead today anyway. Call up the stables and let's ride."

He laughed admiringly. "A fact dawned on you. You could do what Orton told you; or you could make him—to a certain point—do what you told him. If the latter arrangement was carried out life might not be so bad."

"Ride it," said he grinning. "Better him than horse," she said—she, who till now had always hated taking things. "What's a man for if he can't do things for you?"

Orton howled with glee. "Humor! That's what I like about you, Leila. When a man has a sense of humor himself he likes it in a girl. What's a man good for if you can't do him, hey?"

"Exactly!" Leila said brightly. The afternoon progressed excellently.

THE PASSING SHOW OF 1935

Contract Bridge

By E. V. SHEPARD

OBLIGATORY STRATEGY

UNDER THE heading of "obligatory strategy" come all acts necessary to the accomplishment of your purpose, such as fulfillment of an opposing contract. If you must take one or more inesses to fulfill your contract, take them. The play of the following hand illustrates several cases of obligatory strategy.

♠ K 5 4 2
♥ 9 7 3
♦ 10 8 5 2

♠ A Q J 7
♥ 10 6 2
♦ 9 4 3
♣ 7 3 2

♠ 10 8 6
♥ A Q J 4
♦ A Q J
♣ A K 5

♥ K 8 5
♦ K 7 6
♣ Q J 10 9 8

When East continued with his no trumps, after West overcalled the fourth-hand opening call, West raised to 3-No Trumps, which South doubled, as a part of his "obligatory strategy," to show North that two probable re-entries were held by South, for the establishment and run-off of his long suit. Few players keep in mind this bit of useful strategy.

The opening lead was the ♠ 4 of clubs. East passed the first ♠ 4 to North out of the suit. Evidently South held at least the expectation of winning 3 club tricks and his 2 red Kings. The declarer took the second club trick.

To go game East must win at least 3 tricks in each major suit, plus his 2 club tricks and the Ace of diamonds. His obligatory strategy in case South held the K. The 3 of spades was led. Dimmock's lost to North's K, but left the suit established, assuming 2 tricks thereon.

Part of the obligatory strategy of North was to lead the 3 of spades, then lead back to diamond's greatest weakness, before the declarer could extract South's cards of re-entry. The 2 of diamonds was led. Another case of obligatory strategy was for East not to allow South's K of diamonds to win, enabling South to establish club tricks. East extracted the K of diamonds. If the remaining ♠ were true, and North held the ♠ 10, the K of diamonds he could have taken later on and welcome. The Ace of diamonds was played. South played his 7. East did not even bother to take a look at his hand. He led the Q of hearts. South passed that trick. It was possible that he might gain by doing so. When a low heart was led South won with his K, making his side it. Third and fourth tricks. He led back to diamonds, hoping to later on set in with the K of diamonds. He did that, but at the meanwhile East ran out three 3 spades, 3 hearts, 1 diamond and 2 clubs.

AUXILIARY INITIATES FIVE NEW MEMBERS

At the regular meeting of the American Legion auxiliary, Monday evening, in the Post room of Memorial hall, five new members were initiated including Mrs. E. S. Thacher, Mrs. Roy Norris, Mrs. Wayne Mogan, Misses Betty Betz and Eleanor Wiggins.

During the business the mid-winter conference, to be held Saturday at the Desher-Wallick hotel, Columbus, was discussed and all members were urged to attend.

Following the initiation Mrs. Fred Dauenhauer, chairman of the losing team in a recent membership contest, assisted by the losers, served a delicious covered-dish supper to members of the winning team and new members. About forty persons enjoyed the supper served at a table attractively decorated with Valentine colors and centered with a heart tree.

BRIDGE CLUB ENTERTAINED

Members of her bridge club were guests of Miss Nellie Riffle, E. Main-st., Monday evening, when she entertained at her home. Mrs. Marion Sensenbrenner was a substituting guest.

The enjoyable hours spent in cards in play at two tables were brought to a close with the awarding of prizes to Mrs. John Bolender, Miss Riffle and Mrs. Fred Donnelly. Mrs. Sensenbrenner received a guest favor.

MRS. CELLAR GUEST AT LUNCHEON IN BEXLEY

Mrs. Wilson F. Cellar, Montclair-ave., attended the one o'clock luncheon of the Women's club of the Lumberman's association Monday at the Wonder Tea room in Bexley.

Following the luncheon the group were guests at the home of Mrs. R. R. Clarrige in Bexley, where officers were elected and a book review given.

Mrs. Clark Will, Mrs. Frank Bennett, Miss Ann Bennett and Mrs. Harry Heffner heard the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra at Memorial hall in Columbus Monday night.

Several local young people will assist in the production of Hamlet and Julius Caesar to be given by James Hendrickson and Claire Bruce and their company at the high school Wednesday afternoon and evening in the high school auditorium. It is the custom of the company to invite a limited number of students to fill roles in certain scenes.

SALES TAX RULINGS

The sales tax section of the State Tax Commission has issued a number of rulings affecting various lines of business. Those of interest to Pickaway residents will be published in this column at intervals.

BARBER SHOPS

Barber and beauty shop operators are the consumers of the various items which they use or consume in the rendition of their services. As such consumers they will pay the tax on all sales of merchandise to them for use in connection with their business, including equipment and such articles as bay rum, shaving soaps, hair tonic, powder, rouge, lipstick, etc. Such barber and beauty shop operators will be required to collect the tax on articles which they sell in package form and will be required to have a vendor's license for this purpose. Purchases of such items as they intend to resell only in package form will not be subject to the tax.

WATCH REPAIRMEN

Watch repairmen are vendors within the meaning of the act and as such vendors will be required to purchase a vendor's license and collect the tax on all sales of tangible personal property. If a lump sum is charged, which includes the charge for service and the charge for tangible personal property transferred, the tax will be computed on the full amount. If the charge for service and the charge for the items of tangible personal property are separately stated, the tax will be computed on the amount charged for the tangible personal property and no tax will apply on the charge for service.

Women's Social club of the Presbyterian church meets at 7:30 p. m. in the social rooms of the church. Mrs. Ward Robinson is chairman of the hostess.

Strictly Business

Planning a wardrobe for the business woman is an arduous task, declares Lucien Lelong, noted Paris dressmaker. Her wardrobe must be simple, but elegant, using good materials and a well thought-out color scheme. For spring the tailleur is the logical choice, with an array of blouses that she may wear without feeling that she has adopted a uniform. This suit, "Printemps," from Lelong's house, was designed for the business woman and sketched in Paris.

committee and Miss Florence Dunton is in charge of the program committee.

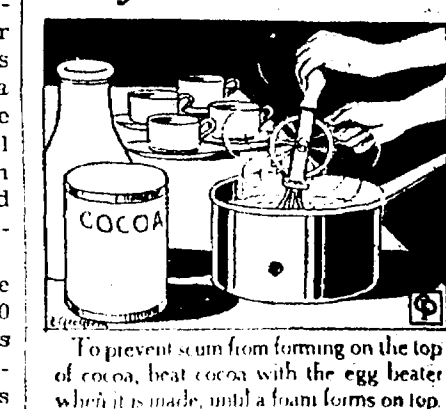

Women's Missionary society of the Church of Christ will have regular meeting at 2:30 p. m. at the home of Miss Blanche Ryan, E. Main-st. Mrs. Lida Ward will be the leader.

MONDAY

Washington-twp Parent-Teacher association will meet at the school at 7:30 p. m. A founder's day program will be presented. Mrs. Clay Hitler is in charge of the family number.

Mrs. Fannie B. Kirkpatrick and daughter, Miss Kathryn, E. Ohio-st. were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kirkpatrick and family of Wilmington.

schooner to the commander of the warship. It read:

"You already have put us into an obligation we can never repay and besides that if you do not get to your destination the Duke of Gloucester will be hunting for me with a shotgun the rest of my life. (Signed) 'Phillips Lord.'"

It was expected the Ontario would tow the schooner and the five men still aboard to Pago Pago.

The rescue of the schooner's crew climaxed four days of distress messages. The Seth Parker first reported herself in trouble last Friday night. The Australia veered from her destination—Balboa, C. Z., and sped to the aid of the disabled ship. When the Australia reached the side of the schooner, Lord declined assistance and the warship steamed back to her course.

Sunday night the schooner flashed an SOS which had been preceded by numerous messages to "stand by." The Australia again sped to the rescue, reaching the Seth Parker a second time last night.

INSANITY ANGLE ENTERS TRIAL OF TULSA COLLEGE BOY

LOEB-LEOPOLD ANGLE HEARD

All Prospective Jurors Questioned Concerning Testimony of Alienists

PAWNEE, Okla., Feb. 12.—Phil Kennamer's trial for the murder of his young college student friend, John Gorrell, took on the tinge of the famous Loeb-Leopold trial in Chicago today.

An assortment of 12 red-faced, horny handed sons of toil, farmers, gasoline station keepers, oil workers and cattlemen, sat in the jury box in Pawnee's spick and span new court house and heard defense attorneys discuss the insanity defense plea and the art of testimony by alienists.

These twelve men are tentative jurors. They have been accepted for the time being by state and defense but more than half a dozen peremptory challenges remain to each side and all of the present, tentative jury may be thrown out before the day is over.

Insanity Inserted
"Do you believe in the insanity plea if it is presented in good faith?" Is one of the questions hurled at the men in the box.

"Would you consider the testimony of an alienist as expert and final in determining the sanity or insanity of a defendant?" is another.

When court opened today it seemed unlikely that the jury would be completed before night; possibly it may be Wednesday afternoon before 12 men acceptable to both the defense and the state are passed in the jury box. Even the total venire of 70 men jurors may be exhausted and a new venire called before the 12 men who will decide the fate of the 19-year-old son of Oklahoma's federal judge, Franklin Kennamer, are selected.

Is young Phil an ego-maniac? Did he often discuss the "perfect crime" just as Loeb and Leopold plotted?

Was he insane when young Gorrell was shot to death in his automobile? (Kennamer has confessed he killed him).

Did he know right from wrong that Thanksgiving night?

Some of these questions have already been asked the tentative jurors. The other may be asked today.

Kennamer Cool

Meanwhile the cold nonchalance and poise of the youthful defendant amazes hardened news writers, attorneys and court attaches. Never before in the history of the southwest has such an optimistic youth faced the shadow of the electric chair.

This morning when he was led to court he was actually whistling. As a deputy sheriff piloted him through the corridors of the court house a merry tune came from his lips and he kept right on whistling until the door in the court room swung open to admit him.

called up reserves to cope with the crisis.

After almost 40 years, the memory of a sanguinary battle between Italian and Abyssinian troops is still fresh in the minds of the Italian people. Unaccustomed to Guerilla warfare waged by the Abyssinian tribesmen, the Italians lost 8,000 men in a battle in 1896.

and un-American everywhere."

Reilly charged that Colonel Lindbergh was "stabbed in the back by the disloyalty of those who worked for him." He shouted insinuations against Miss Betty Gow, the Lindbergh baby's nurse and her former admirer, Henry ("Red") Johnson, and against the dead Violet Sharpe, maid in the home of Mrs. Dwight Morrow, Lindbergh's mother-in-law, and also against the late Oliver Whately, butler in the Lindbergh home.

Reilly assailed Dr. John F. ("Jafsie") Condon, the Lindbergh intermediary, who paid the $50,000 ransom, saying "Condon is behind something in this case that is unholy."

Hauptmann, according to Reilly, did not kidnap the baby, did not collect the ransom and had nothing to do with the crime. He characterized the case the state built up against the defendant as a "movie scenario." He charged the evidence against Hauptmann was "planted."

Judge Thomas Trenchard's charge was scheduled to follow Wilentz' plea after which the case will go to the jury of eight men and four women.

It was indicated this afternoon that Judge Trenchard would not deliver his charge to the jury until Wednesday morning.

PIPE WORK IN ASHVILLE NOW IS UNDER WAY

Bartling and Son resumed work on house services in Ashville last Thursday. Operations were started on Scioto and Main-st and will be finished by streets.

While the contract does not so specify, it was hoped these lateral pipes could be pushed from the Main line to the basement, yet this method to date has not been a success, and a small ditching machine cutting a ten-inch trench is in readiness and will have to be used where advisable. It is intended to use this machine for trenches across streets and if necessary to use it through the lawns.

This small caterpillar will be run on planks and will not do much damage to the yards. This work is to be pushed as rapidly as possible.

Everybody Says...it's the Most Beautiful of All Three!

AND BENEATH
STRENGTH OF STEEL

IT'S BIGGER, too... more room inside... more luxury in finish and fittings... all at no increase in price!

New Plymouth Called "Smartest, Most Luxurious of 'All Three' Low-priced Cars"

BEAUTY SPEAKS for itself! Just one look at this year's low-priced cars tells you Plymouth is the best-looking of "All Three."

It's bigger. Its streamlined body is smarter. Wide-vision windshield... airplane-type fenders... deep, wide doors... all suggest its speed and power.

Safety is also beyond argument. Beneath Plymouth's streamlined beauty is the strength of an All-Steel Body! And Plymouth is still the lowest-priced car with genuine Hydraulic Brakes.

As for riding comfort... the same engineers who perfected scientific distribution of weight in the famous "Air-flow" cars now give Plymouth the same "Floating Ride." New-type springs, shock absorbers and sway eliminator end bumps, jolts and lurches.

In your own way, by your own standards, compare Plymouth with the other low-priced cars before you buy. On display at all Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler dealers. Ask about the Official Chrysler Motors Commercial Credit Plan.

Still one of the lowest-priced cars built!

Only Plymouth gives you All Four:

1. GENUINE HYDRAULIC BRAKES
2. SAFETY-STEEL BODY
3. DISTRIBUTION OF WEIGHT
4. 12% TO 20% LESS GAS & OIL
